STAY CONNECTED

Full of excitement I want to introduce the Watersports.Community to all of you.

After almost 20 years of involvement in water sports, I realized that there is no global internet community - although water sports enthusiasts are all over the world.

However, Facebook and other social media are mostly nationally limited and not really focused on water sports and its community. There are - in my opinion - many necessary elements or features missing. I wanted to do that better with this platform. And I hope that we succeeded.

All members of watersports.community can enter their sailing dates and search for like-minded people. Either because you want to meet new people or you are looking for a skipper to make the trip.

But this also applies to regatta yachtsmen and other water sports enthusiasts who are looking for training partners or want to organize events.

Own trips can be presented as a blog with photos and personal stories. For many people this is a nice basis for own trips. With their own new stories.

So that everybody benefits from the experiences of others, we also have a forum. There you can also make suggestions for sailing areas, up to repair tips or damage prevention.

Last but not least we integrate a workshop app, where sailing instructors, sailing schools etc. can offer their own training (partly) for a fee. Due to the current corona situation, this will certainly be of interest to many people who cannot get on the water and still want to improve their knowledge.

But also not wanting to do without the theory in order to be perfectly prepared for the next trip. As you can see we are planning a social platform with a lot of interesting people who are not able to get on the water but still want to improve.

As you can see we are planning a platform with a bright future. But this will only work with your help. Therefore we also ask for your criticism. This platform is aimed at all water sports enthusiasts and therefore we would like to follow your lead as far as possible. Of course we are also open for new ideas.

But such a platform can only exist if we collect membership fees. In order to build a community as large as possible and to prevent fake profiles, the membership fees are very low.

For the time being, we will charge €/ $ 24.90* per year including VAT for private persons. These fees are due from 01.11.2020. Until then, all features are free of charge for all members (except for the training videos offered by third-party providers). A free trial membership lasts 4 weeks.

Here we ask all members to exchange ideas with us, so that we can repair possible bugs and if necessary incorporate new suggestions into our common platform.

For members between 14-17 years we offer our platform for free.

For commercial members we offer separate fees and ask for contact: info@watersports.community

The official start of the homepage is on 11.08.2020.

We are looking forward to you and wish you all great trips and a lot of fun with our hobby.

Best regards
